Change of Form.

Commencing with next Friday's issue The News will return to its original form—an eight-page paper. The large majority of our home subscribers seem to favor the paper in that shape, and we have been frequently asked to change.
We will also be enabled to give a better showing to our advertisers, and also print all the telegraphic news up to noon the previous day of issue.

Evie may have had her faults, but she was not overdone.

The census discovered only one donkey in Washington. Evidently Congress could not have been in session at the time.

A letter was received at the Millersburg postoffice addressed to "Hell, Ky." After considerable discussion it was sent to Lexington.

Two hundred and ninety-seven Parisians attended the Lexington Fair Friday.
311 went to the Parks Hill camp meeting Sunday, and 164 took advantage of excursion rate to Cincinnati.

The movement of Knights Templars to Louisville has begun. California Commandery left San Francisco Sunday in a special train, which included two refrigerator cars filled with fruit and wine.

Don't go a fishing until the third day after a thunderstorm unless you want the fun for the pleasure, so to speak.
Old fishermen say that fish are too badly scared by thunder to bite for two days and then become good and hungry on the third.

Mr. James Brown, of Portsmouth, Va., over 90 years of age, suffered for years with a bad sore on his face. Physicians could not help him. Dr. Witt's Witch Hazel Salve cured him permanently.—

There is a persistent rumor going the rounds that the case of Jim Howard will be transferred from Scott to Bourbon. Attorney Thomas R. Gordon, of Louisville, will be the chief counsel for Howard at the next trial. Powers' case was transferred to Scott county on a change of venue, and must be retried there, since the law provides for but one change of venue.

A sensation, something that creates more than a passing comment, is what the public is continually hankering after. Herrmann the Great who appears at the Grand next Friday night, has created more than the nine days wonder in his new sensational trick of magic, "Cremation," in which realism is exemplified to a striking degree in the burning of a young lady alive upon the stage.
It is the most talked about bit of black art which has seen the light of day in many years.

OBITUARY.

Calvin Gillispie, aged about 55, formerly of Philadelphia, but for the past two years a resident of Mt. Sterling, died at Deplight, Ill., on Saturday morning.
His remains were interred at North Middleton on yesterday. "Cap" was a well known and popular live stock trader. He leaves a widow, nee Clark, two sons and one daughter.

Question Answered.

Yes August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mothers and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for Indigestion or Biliousness. Doctors were scarce, and they used August Flower, and they were cured. Indigestion or Heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to clean out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied that there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—W. T. Brooks.

THE JOHN ROBINSON SHOWS.

The acme of scenic splendor was reached when John Robinson produced the great spectacle of Solomon, His temple and the Queen of Sheba.

No court was greater in all that pertained to magnificence than Solomon's, and as historically reproduced without loss of calcium and Vir-colored light on the brilliant costumes and scintillating armor, it has received unstinted praise from all who have been fortunate enough to witness the grand spectacle.

The circus has been characterized as the most interesting in the exceptional features and in the general excellence of its ring performances. The menagerie is large and comprehensive and includes living specimens of the rarest beasts, birds, reptiles and amphibians.

The colossal Roman hippodrome in itself a feature that has no duplication and carries the spectator back to Imperial Caesar's day.

The show will exhibit at Paris, Friday, Aug. 23.

WAR ON MOSQUITOES BEGUN

Dr. Doty's Crusade With Oil on Station Island.

With a large tank wagon, a light spring wagon, five laborers and three police of the Richmond borough sanitary squad, Dr. A. H. Doty began the other day his effort to prevent the breeding of mosquitoes in that portion of State Island adjacent to the quarantine boarding station, says the New York Sun. Dr. Doty was clothed in a mackintosh and leggings and the party was followed by a squad of camera bands. Dr. Doty also had a camera and took several snap shots during the afternoon.

The start was made from the boarding station at 11 o'clock, and the party proceeded over Fingerboard road toward Greensboro. Operations were begun at a pond of some three acres and in the woods near Fingerboard road. The pond is shallow and almost stagnant.
A wooden raft about three feet wide and four feet long was placed in the lake, and beneath it was a gridiron frame of iron piping with small holes. A small pressure cylinder, worked by hand, was connected with the raft and with the tank wagon by lengths of garden hose, and the petroleum was forced through the holes in the piping about a foot beneath the surface. The oil rose quickly to the surface of the water and spread over it. Hopes were fastened to the raft, and Dr. Doty's assistants, walking along the opposite shores of the pond, drew the spraying raft all over the water.

This operation was repeated at a dozen small ponds or stagnant pools of water in the vicinity of Greensboro and Concord, and the party did not abandon work for the day until the oil supply was exhausted. Meanwhile Dr.
Doty directed the sanitary police in visits to many residences where the inspectors had found conditions adapted to the breeding of mosquitoes.

The householders were advised to empty water barrels, fill in little puddles and clear up their premises. Several unused cisterns were also treated with oil.

Dr. Doty said that he was well satisfied with his first day's war against mosquitoes, as the work had been mechanically successful. What success had been attained he intended to determine in a few days.

The letter concludes with an appeal to all those who are suffering from injustice or want a wrong avenged to apply to Signor Bufalino, who will consider each case on its merits and make out the desired petition for him if he deems fit. Inclosed in the letter was 10 francs to pay for the insertion of the letter in the Giornale di Sicilia as an advertisement should the editor not think fit to insert it in the correspondence column.

GILBERTIAN BRIGANDAGE.

Chief of Italian Bandits Publishes
His Code of Ethics.

Signor Rosario Bufalino, who has been in prison for a number of crimes, but succeeded in escaping, has written to the Giornale di Sicilia that he has just formed a band of brigands who have elected him their chief. The paper Rome correspondent, Chief Bufalino informs the public that the new band of brigands proposes to begin business in the new year and to administer justice according to the teachings of Holy Writ.

CHINESE TO CUT OFF CUES.

Reform Association Sends Out
Order to Its Members.

The leaders of the Chinese Reform Association in San Francisco, which numbers not less than 6,000 members in California, have received an edict from the chief officers of the society that cues must be sacrificed on the altar of reform. The leaders of the organization declare that the order will be obeyed, so the cueless Chinese may soon be a common sight.

Ho Yow, Chinese consul general, said recently to a New York Sun reporter:
"In my opinion, the reform of China does not necessitate the cutting off of cues. In fact, such reforms, where they touch the religious observances and old customs of China, tread on dangerous ground. The proper way to reform China is to adopt such educational and commercial measures as are in keeping with the temper of the multitude."

A New Woman's Club.

The newly organized Women's University seems to be starting under particularly favorable auspices so far as membership and enthusiasm are concerned. But there is a lion in the way, which, I fear, the ladies will not of, for it has been determined to run a club restaurant, says The Observer in Harper's Weekly. Now, it is well known that in men's clubs the restaurant account always shows a deficit.
Furthermore, women are notoriously parsimonious in the luncheon which they buy on their own account, one portion of tea and rolls divided among three persons, with a plate of ice cream, and no tip to the waiter, being the accepted feminine standard for a shopping expedition. In men's clubs the deficit is often made good by the patrons, but here, where the Women's University club to deal with the problem, unless—but not! The time is not ripe for the weed and cocktail in the sacred precincts of a woman's club, University or Plain. The only hope seems to lie in the establishment of a millinery department.

ESTIMATE OF D'ANNUNZIO.

Outsiders' Appreciation of the Italian Writer's Ability.

This appreciation of Gabriele D'An-nuzio, the great Italian writer, is contained in "Critical Studies," a set of essays by Ouida, published by Cas-sell & Co.

The mind of D'Annunzio refuses all bondage. It is a law to itself, as the mind of the great writer should be.
I imagine that the opinion of him held by others is to him of the most absolute unimportance. His teaching is always to preserve the independence of the ego, to live without attention to formula or usage, to be, both materially and spiritually, that which we are created to be by nature.

He is disposed to admit what is strongly simply because it is strong, forgetful that such strength is sustained and nourished by the suffering of the weak. It is true that he has lived in an atmosphere in which the virtues embodied in abstractions, abstractions but always noble, of the higher efforts of revolution have been received with fear and misunderstanding.

This son of Italy is a great writer, a great poet. Read his works in the original text all you can, men and women, for your life has no secrets and truth has no terror.

Genius, like the river at its source, takes the color of the earth it springs from. It is only when it has reached its full volume, its deepest currents, that it becomes clear and reflects the sky above. Let us hope that such a future awaits him, and that more and fully will he realize what he has already said in noble words:

"Art! Here is the one faithful passion ever youthful, any, immortal; here is the fountain of pure joy unknown to the multitude; here is the divine flow which makes men like to gods. How could he have stooped to drink at other cups when he had once tasted of this?"

"How could he have bent to taste of other joys, once having known this ecstasy? How could his senses have let themselves be weakened and debated to lowest lusts when they had once been stirred to that highest ecstasy? How could he have let himself be touched by the impalpable, which divines the most hidden secrets in the heart of nature?"

With these words, which are the greatest in meaning that he has hitherto written, I will for the present moment take my leave of him.

A TALK WITH SCHLEY.

Admiral Tells of an Incident Connected With the Santiago Fight.

In discussing the Sampson-Schley controversy a citizen of Altoona, Pa., says that he met Schley shortly after he was relieved of the command of the squadron. Schley was on his way westward as a passenger on the Pennsylvania limited. The conversation as related by the Altoona man ran thus:
"I met you at the Altoona Hotel. I knew you were here, and I wanted to see you. I was very glad to meet you.
I had heard that you were in the harbor of Santiago?"

"My first words when I saw them leaving the entrance to the harbor were, 'Either they will go down or I will go down.'"

"Well, tell me, admiral, what was your first thought when the fight was over?"

"Friend," replied the admiral, "the first thought that came to my mind was that the fight was a little lackluster. I thought that the fight was not as good as it should have been.
I thought that the fight was not as good as it should have been."

"Friend," replied the admiral, "the
not as good as it should have been.
